Dear Membership,

Finally, spring is finally here, and I am looking forward to my flowers blooming in my flower bed.

It's been another busy month with Regional Meetings; I had a great opportunity to go to Region VI and Region II. Meet with existing members but also members who returned for the last regional meeting in their area. I was very honored to have great conversations and hear the enthusiasm for the new regional alignment. Some members were sad, but it is understandable.

Review of the Regional Fund Resolutions are being combined to form Regional bylaws. Mail votes will start to be sent to your presidents in your area to vote for new Regional directors and the new Regional Resolutions.

We have been working hard on the strategic business plan for the next 3 years. This will be sent to membership to review, if you have any suggestions to add or would like to help us. If you have some time to help us with the strategic plan, please send me an email. If you have other suggestions about this plan, please contact the board and let them know. We also have sent out the first quarter treasure report. The convention package is out; please find it on our website.

If we are going to work together, we must first stop the internal fighting going on with membership. It's been very discouraging to see members tearing down other members. This is happening in all regions at club level. It was so sad to hear previous lot past ADDC presidents experience this first hand as well. We need to encourage, support and help each other. Educate each other along the way of forming new friendships. That is the association; I remember joining 15 years ago.

We have also started working on a financial business plan as well. Once we have this completed, we will be sending this out to membership. It will outline the next finical steps the association must take, and at what point changes will be required.

Region I May 17th to 19th, 2018
Region VII May 23 to 27, 2018
Convention September 18th to 22nd, 2018

Sincerely,
Christina Forth

Region III Director's Newsletter

April, 2018

Dear Members of Region III:

I can't believe how fast time is moving – it definitely stands still for no one. By now all members should have completed their renewals as the deadline has clearly passed. We hope that most, if not all, members have rejoined as we would surely miss you!

Region III is on the verge of holding their last "Region III" meeting – if they haven't already done so by the time this letter is published. It is truly the end of an era – as the saying goes: When one door closes, Another opens. We are closing the door to Region III and opening another called Southeast Region.

Many hours of work have been put into the creation of the Southeast "Region Fund Resolution Bylaws" thanks to the hard working committee consisting of Evelyn Green, Cindy Miller, Ada Weeks, Dorothy Semon and Susan Weaver. KUDOS to all for their time and dedication. Once this has been approved by the Rules Committee they will be forwarded to the 2018 Club Presidents to be discussed at Region III and Region IV Clubs that will be joining the Southeast Region, finally being voted on via mail.

And let's not forget the Nominating Committee who has been hard at work soliciting for a 2019 Southeast Region Director-Elect, Alice Gros, Val Blanchard, Val Williams and Ivy Young. THANK YOU ladies for all of the hard work that went into this endeavor. This too will be voted on via mail.

As all Region meetings are fast approaching let's get our thinking caps on. Articles are needed – it's not too early (or too late) to write an article that can be submitted at the end of this year for next year's contest. Whether industry related or socio-economic, it's up to the writer – so get busy writing. You never know, maybe your name will be called out as a first, second or third place winner.

It's also not too late to be thinking about and planning to attend ADDC to be held in Evansville, Indiana this year. This is our organization – let's show our support by attending monthly meetings, region meetings and ADDC. YOU are needed to make us a success!!!

HAPPY MOTHER'S DAY!

KATHY MARTIN

Lafayette President

srmdisney@gmail.com

"Spring Showers bring May Flowers" and what glorious days we have been blessed with to stop and smell the flowers! Hope each of you had a wonderful Mother's Day full of life's blessings!

Huge THANK YOU to Joy Cobert, a certified speaker, coach and trainer with The John Maxwell Team and a partner and Realtor with NextHome Cutting Edge Realty, who served as our April speaker, and shared with our members "The Law of Intentionality"! Joy described ways to have personal growth within ourselves and to strive for goals to become the best version of us! What a GREAT program!

ADDC shared updated Membership Statistics and we are proud to report we are only 4 members away from our budgeted number of 1200 (and Sue Weaver with the San Antonio club indicated they had 4 members coming in next week!!!)!! This does not include our newest member either, Ms. Paulette Alleman!!! Welcome to the Desk and Derrick Club of Lafayette Paulette! We look forward to learning all about you and sharing our "Greater Knowledge, Greater Service" about our industry and association!

Our May meeting will feature Mr. Billy Mouton, Attorney at Law, who will guide us through the ins and outs of an oil and gas lease! Our June membership meeting will feature guest speaker, Mr. Scott Angelle, BSEE Director, who, unfortunately will not be available in person, but will speak to us via video to update us on the industry! We certainly appreciate Mr. Angelle making arrangements to deliver his message, even though Washington, DC won't allow him to make the meeting in person. Remember, meals will be $17 for members and $25 for non-members!

Everyone should have received the package for the 67th ADDC Conference in Evansville, IN. There are a great number of incredible choices for Field Trips, Seminars and some "boot scooting boogie" set for the Friday night Icebreaker celebrating "Pump Jacks" and the women and men in the field! Make your reservations now at the Doubletree by Hilton, 601 Walnut Street, Evansville, IN (866) 442-0959.

Until next month...

Kathy Martin

Why rising oil prices might not faze the US Economy

In a significant shift in thinking, several economists contacted by CNBC now believe a rise in US oil prices may not produce very much, if any, drag on U.S. growth. Some even contend that the nation's new oil-producing prowess make a rise in prices "a wash" for growth.

This is a complete about-face for old metrics where it was practically automatic for economists to mark down growth when oil prices rose.

But the rise of the United States to become the world's largest second largest oil producer has changed the calculus for how rising energy prices affect the economy. Consumer pain at the pump is now seen as offset to an extent by increases in capital spending by US oil companies and by gains in the growing number of regions producing energy. And what once would have been a massive surge in the oil trade deficit, which would subtract from gross domestic product, is now offset to a large degree by US oil exports.

"We think the effect will round to a wash," said Michael Feroli, chief US economist with JP Morgan Chase. "Our prior modeling would likely have produced a slightly more adverse impact, perhaps annualizing to a quarter point off growth for two consecutive quarters."

Now Feroli sees a roughly 0.2 percent decrease from lower consumer spending offset by a 0.2 percent gain in capital spending.

To be sure, economists contacted by CNBC said they could not be sure if the positives would offset the negative at any oil price. A return to prices over $100 a barrel could overwhelm the consumer and exert a strong negative drag on the overall economy.

In addition, oil has an outsized effect on the US consumer's psyche, beyond the actual costs. A sustained period of $3 a gallon for gasoline could weigh on confidence and spending. Finally, there could well be a mismatch in the timing of an offset to lower consumer spending from capital spending so that one quarter shows a drag while the next one exhibits a boost.

John Ryding of RDQ Economics is not quite ready to say it's a wash, but he offered, "You're not looking at the kind of magnitude that we used to think about oil prices hurting the US. I think that it's less than a third of the impact that it used to be."

Ryding says the biggest issue will be one of distribution. Higher oil prices amount to a wealth transfer from consumers to shareholders, and from oil consuming regions to oil producing regions. But this time, a lot more of the money will stay within American borders with the question of how petrodollars get divided inside the country.

DON'T FORGET!!

- ◇ Convention is September 18–22 in Evansville Indiana.
- ◇ June is D&D Appreciation Month!!! Scott Angelle, BSEE Director will be our speaker.

JP Morgan error

The rethink of the oil price impact is borne of the recent decline in prices in 2014 and 2015 and its failure to boost the economy. JP Morgan in a research note did what few economists do these days: they went back and looked at their errors.

It found the oil price impact on consumer spending ended up being 0.7 percent less than what it would have expected and the drag from capital spending was 0.2 percent more. Put simply, lower oil prices added less to consumption and took away more from investment than the old forecasting metrics would have implied.

Some Federal Reserve officials have learned the lesson. St. Louis Federal Reserve President James Bullard told CNBC today that the negative consumer effects and the positive investment effects "more or less washes out."

"This will also encourage US production, and compared to years past, oil prices have a more neutral effect on the US economy," Bullard said. "It used to be a big oil shock was probably bad news ... but now I think it's neutral."

A key to the offset is whether and by how much companies step up to invest. Many investors and lenders were burned in the last price run up so the sector could have some difficulty attracting long-term capital. And, productivity continues to improve in the oil sector, meaning fewer rigs are needed to extract the same amount of oil as even five years ago. Finally, some of that capital equipment will be imported, a drag on the US trade deficit that will offset at least some of the surge in oil exports.

But that's at the margin of a stark change in the US energy profile. US oil production has surged from a low of 4.6 million barrels a day in 2005 to a new record high of 10 million barrels a day. It's risen 13 percent in just the past year, following the price of oil higher.

Importantly for US balance of payments, the result of more US production is a sharp decline in imports, which have fallen by 42 percent in real dollars since 2005, while exports are up 318 percent. That is, they have gone from a basically a negligible amount to a meaningful offset to imports.

Keith Emmerson

Born & Raised in Shreveport, LA (Damn Yankee). All my work experience is within companies that pertain to the oilfield. I started with Offshore Energy Services in Oil City, LA right after graduating high school. While there, I worked in the field as a laydown operator and in the shop as an assistant shop foreman / tong repair. After two years I was presented with an opportunity at Petroleum Co-Ordinators. In Lafayette to work offshore as a rig clerk (contractor) for Chevron.

After eight years working in an offshore environment with many great people and working on some great rigs, I received a call from Stone Energy to become a Deepwater Operations Tech. This lined up with my goal to become an employee of an E&P company instead of working as a contractor. Also, I could be home every night with my wife of six years, Laura.

Shortly after moving to Lafayette, Laura became pregnant with our first child. This was after a miscarriage and many different fertility treatments. We had been trying to have a child for about six years. There must have been something in the water. Olivia Nicole Emerson “ONE” was born January 28, 2015 and it changed our lives. It got even better with our second child Reid William Emerson who was born February 13, 2018 (MARDI GRAS).

Stone Energy was a great place to work until the downturn. During the first round of layoffs I was anxious since I was the “new guy”. That’s when an opportunity within Supply Chain opened for me. I became the Materials Coordinator. I had to help the new Supply Chain Manager build a new organization within Stone Energy. It has been a bumpy road from the beginning, but we managed to get the organization back on track with corporate goals.

During this time is when I was introduced to Desk & Derrick by my co-worker Samantha Rushlow. I brushed it off time after time until another co-worker Sherri Bienvenue asked me to come to a meeting. To mess with Sam, I went. I found out that the D&D Club is a great organization with great members. I look forward to helping keep the organization moving forward through these tough times and I also look forward to getting to know everyone.

Thanks,

Keith Emerson

COMMITTEE HIGHLIGHT

Committee: Communication/Training/Education

Chairperson: Sheri Bienvenue

Responsibilities: To promote continuous education and training by providing at least two educational opportunities for members during the year. (speakers, seminars, programs, etc. concerning the petroleum Industry.)

You keep our Knowledge & Education Growing!

SHERI—We Appreciate your Efforts.

We will now be accepting Mardi Gras beads to donate to LARC here in Lafayette. I have included some information below on what LARC does. This will be an ongoing donation, so bring your beads to any of our monthly meetings and the Special Activities Committee will handle everything from there!

It's a great time to clean out your closets, attics and garages and donate for a cause!

Taken from LARC's Website:

"Mardi Gras Beads-n-More is one of LARC's Enterprises, which creates jobs and opportunities for individuals with developmental disabilities. It is located in the old "Mississippi Valley Museum" in LARC's Acadian Village. Hours are Monday-Friday from 9am-2pm. It is here you will find LARC individuals sorting through beads. They are first measured by size then bundled into a dozen of the same size/length. They are then bagged according to specific size.

Area Mardi Gras Krewes, businesses, and individuals are encouraged to purchase their beads for Mardi Gras and other occasions at Mardi Gras Beads -N- More. All proceeds benefit LARC's Vocational Services Department. "

This month's donation item:

Lemonade Rum Punch

Ingredients

4 oz. lemonade	2 oz. pineapple juice
2 oz. coconut rum	1 oz. dark rum

Directions

Pour lemonade, pineapple juice and coconut rum into large glass filled with ice, using a spoon to gently stir the drink. (Or pour into a cocktail shaker, shake and pour into a glass filled with ice.)

Top glass with the dark rum, so it floats on top and slowly blends into the rest of the drink, giving it an ombré effect. Serve.

Yield: 1 Serving

Prep. Time: 10 Mins.
