Happy New Year! The 2018 ADDC board is excited to serve our membership this year.

As you will notice, we are not staying with the formal format of our letters, including the Regional Directors. We have decided to spice things up and have Regional Directors mention events, member profiles or any upcoming events in the area. Keep members aware of what is happening in the Region. We hope you will enjoy the change, as we really wanted to express more of our members and club activities. If you have information to share, please reach out to your Regional Director, we would like to hear from you.

The final mail votes are in, and both proposals have been passed by 2/3 vote. In 2019 the regional realignment will be implemented, and the position of Vice President eliminated. The 2018 board will help lead you through the changes and implantation in 2018. Budget and Planning will be taking place in Tulsa, Oklahoma January 19th and 20th, 2018. We will also be hearing from the audit committee and planning our upcoming year and future years as well. My mandate is to reach a zero budget this year, and the restructuring will also help the longevity of this great Association.

The current Board for this year are: Carrie Harmon, Region I; Beth Etzkorn, Region II; Carol Schiavone, Region III; Sue Weaver, Region IV; Andrea McGarragh, Region V; Casi Nicholas, Region VI; Tracy Fillmore, Region VII; Wendy Sparks, Treasurer; Evelyn Green, Secretary & Executive Assistant; Keith Atkins, Vice President; Terry Ligon, President Elect; Maggi Franks, Immediate Past President; and Marilyn Carter, Parliamentarian

I would also like to thank all the committee chairmen for stepping up this year as well. We have a dynamic team. Wayne Ammons will be filling the position of ADO Manager and Webmaster.

I am challenging membership to think outside the box. What do I mean by that? Is there some way you can promote our Association? Is there a way you can help on a committee? Volunteer for an event? Step up? The more hands to help, lightens the load. Please know that I am reachable at any time with questions, comments or concerns you wish to express. That is my commitment this year!

I wish everyone a Happy New Year! Thank you for allowing me to serve as your 2018 ADDC President.

Dear Region III Members:

HAPPY NEW YEAR TO EACH OF YOU! I sincerely hope when you made your New Year's Resolutions, you included Desk and Derrick as a priority – striving to attend monthly meetings, field trips and seminars that are planned for your educational and social benefit. I know I did. A good way to put that resolution to work is to include your reservation to attend your Region III Meeting to be held April 4th-8th, 2018, in Metairie, Louisiana. Johanna Lae of the New Orleans Club and GAC for 2018 Region is ready, willing and able with any questions you may have. Please do not hesitate to contact her, myself or any of the New Orleans' members.

I would like to take this opportunity to express Region III's sincere APPRECIATION and a THANK YOU to Claudia Prather, Region III Director 2017 for doing an exceptional job of keeping us informed timely so we knew what matters were coming to fruition and which were involved in ongoing discussions.

CONGRATULATIONS to all incoming Region III Presidents for joining the Krewe of Desk and Derrick by taking on the duties and responsibilities that the office of President carries. They are: Judy Buckley, Baton Rouge; Eugenia Palculict, El Dorado; Kathy Martin, Lafayette; Jessica Wade, Laurel; Charlotte Ratcliff, Morgan City; Kathy Gowland, New Orleans; Sheryl Cole, Red River and Angie Duplessis, Westbank. We have many challenges ahead of us but with determination and dedication we will keep this organization that we believe in and care about so much "afloat".

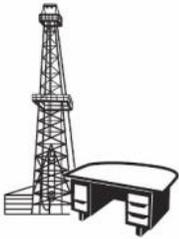

Please, don't be afraid to ask questions – I promise if I don't know the answer I will address your concerns and questions with the 2018 ADDC Board. As your Region III Director I am the liaison between the clubs and members of your Region and the ADDC Board. They too are ready, willing and eager to be able to help us as a group to get the job done.

The Region III Program Chairman is Lois Folsie of the Baton Rouge Club so please let this serve as a reminder that your club program report is due within seven days of your monthly meeting. Let's make her job easier by getting your reports in timely.

HAVE A HAPPY, HEALTHY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR!!

Dear Members,

Happy New Year! What an exciting year ahead! Thank you for entrusting 2018 to my leadership, again. It has been quite some time since I last served this wonderful organization and I am certainly looking forward to carrying on the incredible path Sarah Hulin, our 2017 President, has placed in our future!

Last year, Sarah began several new and exciting opportunities for our club and our members and it is my hope to continue her onward direction. We will continue with our Mentor/Mentee program (if you haven't signed up and would like to, please let me know), no head table at the monthly meetings so you have an opportunity to get to know your Board Members and our monthly member spotlights! We have an exciting road ahead and it is truly my pleasure to travel with you!

All membership renewals are now due. If you have not renewed your membership, please do so now. We must submit payment and application/renewals to ADDC by February 1st.

Our first board meeting included all members of the Board and Committee leadership. Thank you for your enthusiasm, eagerness to serve, and commitment to making our club the best it can be. Please see your list of 2018 Committee Chairmen in the Desrick and if you are interested in becoming a member of any committee (it's really the BEST way to learn about our organization), please contact the committee chair. Our next membership meeting will be January 17, 2018.

Region III Meeting will be held at the former Landmark Hotel, April 5-8, 2018 in New Orleans, LA. As soon as the registration packet is received, it will be forwarded it to you. I hope you have plans to attend as I know the New Orleans Club is planning a great Region III Meeting. Reminder to send a copy of your registration to Samantha Rushlow, Region/Convention Chair.

Our 2018 Region III Director, Carol Schiavone, recently notified all presidents of the outcome of two (2) amendments to ADDC Bylaws discussed during the 2017 ADDC Convention: (1) Region Realignment wherein we will transition from 7 regions to 4 regions effective January, 2019; and (2) the elimination of the Vice President position on the ADDC Board of Directors. Both amendments were voted on by mail ballot and both PASSED. Your ADDC Board is working hard to ensure our organization stays viable for years to come.

I am honored to be serving as your President and thank you for your support. I look forward to the coming year and hope to continue to grow our club and provide opportunities for "Greater Knowledge, Greater Service"!

New Member Spotlight

Name: Melissa Thibodeaux

Company: Kelly OCG/Weatherford International. (Might sound confusing to many...I work as a consultant for Weatherford through Kelly Outsourcing Consultant Group) My role is seamless with Weatherford, meaning I'm 100% integrated in Weatherford Talent Acquisition as it relates to US Operations, Manufacturing, R&D and Labs.

Position: My title is Lead Sr. Recruiter-US Operations. I have been working with Weatherford for 6+ years in Talent Acquisition.

Where do you like to go to have fun? I love traveling and exploring new places. Locally, I enjoy festivals, food, dance and Cajun culture.

What is one thing that people may be surprised to know about you? I'm a cancer survivor. I had a rare tonsil cancer that moved into my lymph nodes. I had a complete neck dissection as well as a radical tonsillectomy following chemo and radiation. 2017 made 5 years cancer free. (I can now start 2018 with a cancer policy. You have to wait 5yrs for most insurance companies to accept you on their cancer plans.)

What is your favorite thing about your current position or job? One, I get to work remotely from home and experience true work/life balance. Secondly, my role directly impacts and changes people's lives. Most Americans spend more time at work than at home in an average week. It is important for people to enjoy and like what they do. Helping match talent with the business needs contributes to success of the business while helping that person to achieve their career goals.

What made you choose to join the Desk and Derrick Club of Lafayette? Born and raised in South Louisiana means Oil and Gas was always part of the scenery as well as deeply embedded in my family. Once I entered my career, my focus and specialization quickly became Oil and Gas based. I feel the industry is living and always evolving resulting in changes, tweaks, new/old regulations, price and technology. With that being said, I selected Desk and Derrick has a platform for me to network and share while continuing to broaden my knowledge of the history, current market and advancements in the industry. As well as share the highs and lows as we all know, our industry can be a bumpy roller coaster at times.

GUEST SPEAKERS

Lena Peeva MacEwen, P.E. is an Engineering Manager at Loadmaster Industries, Inc.

Lena was born in Sofia, Bulgaria. After graduating high school, she attended the University of Architecture, Civil Engineering and Geodesy, which she graduated from in 1994 with bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering - Structures. In 1999 she was accepted as a graduate student at the Civil Engineering Department of UL at Lafayette (then USL). Lena graduated from UL at Lafayette in 2001 with master's degree in Hydraulics and Hydrology.

After her graduation, she worked as a design engineer at Water King, Inc designing water treatment systems and packages. At the end of 2002, she started a new job as a research associate with the Civil Engineering Department of UL at Lafayette. As a research associate she took part in the preparation of research proposals and technical papers, managed projects with state and federal agencies, and participated in collecting hydrologic field data, data analysis, and flood studies.

Since 2005, Lena has been working with Loadmaster Industries, Inc. As of now, she has over 15 years of design experience in the oil and gas industry at first as a structural design engineer and later as an engineering manager. She participated in the design, development and testing of numerous offshore and onshore steel structures and accessories including but not limited to derricks, masts, substructures, parts of pipe handling equipment, high pressure piping, pipe racks, etc. Lena worked together on some major projects with clients such as Cameron, Chevron, Exxon, Total, Rowan, Ensco, PPL Shipyard Singapore, JDC – Japanese Drilling Company, Franks Casing, and many others.

Bryan Sellers is the Estimating/Inside Sales/Field Service Manager at Loadmaster Industries, Inc.

Bryan Sellers was born in Lafayette, LA. After graduating high school, he attended the University of Louisiana at Lafayette and worked for his father's local Electrical Contracting Service Company. Also, while attending ULL Bryan joined the Louisiana Army National Guard.

During his tenure with the armed forces Bryan served as a SGT-Squad Leader during Operation Iraqi Freedom II & III leading his team through hundreds of successful combat missions. He has completed Warrior Leaders Training and is the recipient of Multiple Awards crediting for services rendered.

Since 2008, Bryan has been working with Loadmaster Industries, Inc. as a Field Service Technician, then LMI facility foreman, then Field Service Coordinator and now Field Service Manager, Estimating & Inside Sales Manager reporting directly to the VP of Operations.

He has direct operational experience including inland/offshore drilling operations, pipeline operations, QMS implementation/management, training and organizational development, and structural manufacturing. He has over 10 years' experience in Installation, Service & Repair of derricks, derrick components and other oilfield equipment to include, Crown Blocks, Traveling Blocks, Deadline Anchors, Deadline Deflector, Retract dolly Systems, Parking Systems, Automated Racking Board Systems, and Automated Pipe Racking Systems.

He has participated in the design, development and testing of numerous offshore and onshore steel structures and accessories including but not limited to derricks, masts, substructures, parts of pipe handling equipment, high pressure piping, pipe racks, etc.

Don Briggs Stepping Down as President of LOGA

After 26 years, President Don Briggs has announced that he is stepping down from his position as president of the Louisiana Oil and Gas Association.

According to a press release from LOGA, he will be pursuing other ventures aimed at helping to promote Louisiana's oil and gas industry.

Briggs will be succeeded by Vice President Gifford Briggs. The transition is expected to begin immediately.

"Little did I know that when I arrived in Louisiana in 1964 that this would be my home and oil and gas would be my life's work," Briggs said in an issued statement. "I am most proud of the contributions my industry has made in Louisiana.

Specifically, after Hurricane Katrina, we were able to raise over $1 million to provide housing, fuel, and transportation for families affected by this horrendous hurricane.

I can, in full confidence, hang my hat on the accomplishments of LOGA and the advancements in the oil and gas industry.

I would like to thank my staff, our members, and the industry for their unwavering support throughout the years. I am eager to start this next venture and continue the fight for the oil and gas industry. I am confident that Gifford and all of our loyal LOGA staff will continue my work by serving the next generation of oil men and women. We must continue to celebrate Louisiana's oil and gas industry for decades to come."

Gifford Briggs will finalize the transition into the role of president at LOGA's 2018 Annual Meeting in March.

Additionally, Don Briggs will be awarded with the title of President Emeritus of LOGA in acknowledgement of his years of service and sacrifice to its members and the industry.

Energy Dominance Without Sacrificing Safety

The Trump administration moved Thursday to vastly expand offshore drilling from the Atlantic to the Arctic oceans with a plan that would open up federal waters off California for the first time in more than three decades.

Contrary to recent misleading reports, neither the Department of the Interior nor our agency, the Bureau of Safety and Environmental Enforcement, is weakening offshore safety or environmental rules. As a Louisiana native, and my state's interim lieutenant governor at the time of the Deepwater Horizon tragedy, I fully understand the importance of worker safety and environmental protection.

Our agency is working hard to fulfill executive orders, which require an extensive review of our regulations. Our commonsense approach is to propose revisions that could reduce burdens on operators without impacting safety and environmental protections. Our changes will never reduce safety and will, in some cases, improve it.

Our agency enforces dozens of regulations, but we are currently seeking public input on changes to one: the Production Safety Systems Rule. Enacted in late 2016, this regulation is not related to the Deepwater Horizon incident. The changes we propose are common sense: reducing unnecessary notifications, clarifying when operators must provide documentation, and specifying that safety and pollution prevention equipment that meets required industry standards have achieved third-party verification. We propose to codify 17 updated standards so they bear the force of law as another sign of our commitment to safety. We are examining other rules, but have not reached the public-comment phase.

We have no plans to alter two significant rules enacted following Deepwater Horizon, the Drilling Safety Rule and the Safety and Environmental Management Systems Rule. We are also strengthening our inspection program by implementing risk-based processes that focus our efforts on potential safety problems.

I am confident that the bureau will be able to achieve the goal of integrating a risk-based inspection protocol in 2018. Through these efforts, and many others, we are moving forward toward meeting the administration's goal of achieving energy dominance without sacrificing safety.

Oil And Gas Sector Outlook For 2018

By Robert Rapier

Around the end of each year, I reflect on the year in energy and make projections about the year ahead. These articles review the year's top energy stories. I also grade the energy predictions I made the previous January.

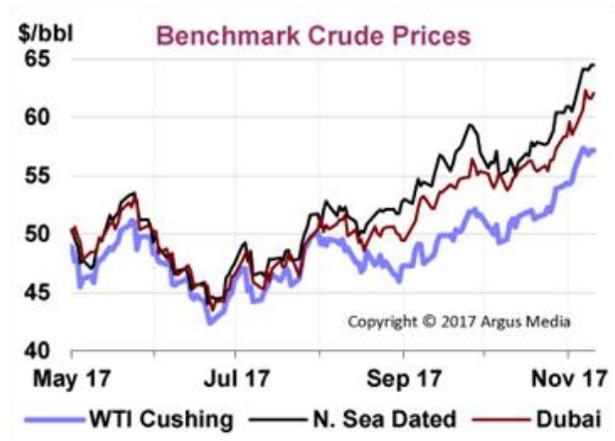

But I like to lead off this series with some projections about where I think the energy sector is headed in the year ahead. I will use these projections to finalize my annual energy predictions in early January.

Today I will discuss the outlook for the oil and gas sector.

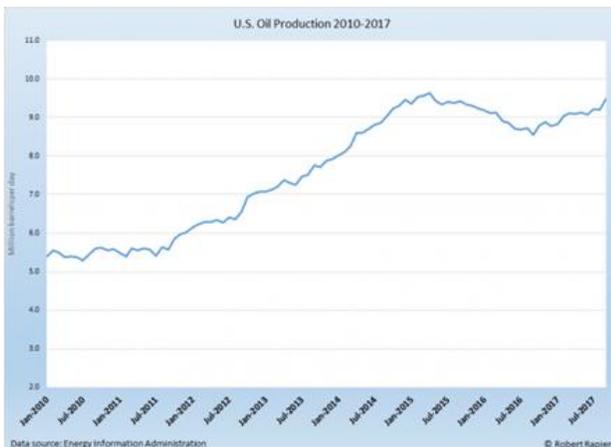

The Bear Becomes a Bull

The first half of 2017 was a continuation of the energy bear market that started three years ago. But a strong recovery began in the second half of 2017. The recovery was driven by a steady decline in global crude oil inventories. That decline helped push the price of benchmark crudes from about $45 per barrel in late June to over $60 in November.

OPEC will have the largest influence on oil prices in 2018. The group recently committed to maintaining production cuts through 2018. If they follow through with that oil prices should move steadily higher as inventories continue to fall.

Who Benefits?

Along with the price recovery, U.S. oil production grew sharply in 2017 and continues to show momentum into the end of the year. Next year will likely see the previous all-time production record in the U.S. broken.

The biggest winners of an oil price recovery will be oil producers and oilfield services companies. Many oil producers have seen their share prices rise 15%-30% from the August lows.

Source: www.investingdaily.com

Oil And Gas Sector Outlook For 2018 (cont'd)

Some upstream support services, like producers of sand used in hydraulic fracturing, have seen even bigger gains. Smart Sand (NASDAQ: SND), for instance, has risen by 70% since mid-August. Expect those gains to continue into 2018.

Natural gas producers may not fare as well, even though demand growth remains robust. Natural gas exports are surging. Consumption in the chemical sector continues to grow. Utilities are shifting away from coal and toward natural gas plants.

However, natural gas production growth has kept pace, which has kept prices in check. Continued growth in U.S. oil production also brings with it associated natural gas, and that is expected to further boost supplies next year.

Thus, unless the winter is unusually cold, the surge of oil production I expect next year should help keep natural gas prices in check. I don't expect natural gas companies to do poorly, but they are less likely to lead the sector.

Midstream Should Catch Up As Refiners Roll

The midstream sector has lagged the oil price rally. While many oil companies enjoyed double-digit gains since August, the major midstream sector indices have declined. This disconnect can't persist, as the outlook for the sector has improved with the increase in oil prices. Midstream is probably the most undervalued sector in oil and gas at present.

The refining sector has been in a bull market throughout the broader energy bear market of the past three years. Low oil and natural gas prices are conducive to higher refining margins. As oil companies shed 30% or more of their value since mid-2014, major refiners saw gains of 50%-70%.

If the current tax proposals pass, refiners should benefit. There is also a possibility of changes to the Renewable Fuel Standard, which costs refiners billions of dollars each year. Refiners should make further gains in 2018, but potential tax reforms could make the sector soar.

Conclusions

There are numerous potential winners in the oil and gas sector for 2018. Growth investors should focus on oil producers and refiners, while aggressive investors should look to the smaller oil producers and oilfield services companies.

Conservative investors will find a lot of value in the midstream sector. Given the improving outlook across the oil sector, integrated oil companies that encompass production, transportation, and refining should also fare well in 2018.

January's Comfort Food

INDIVIDUAL CHICKEN POT PIES

Makes about 4 pies, depending on baking dish size

Pie Crust:

3/4 cup whole wheat flour
3/4 cup AP flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
4 Tbsp. cold unsalted butter, cut into 1/2" cubes
1/2 cup buttermilk

Filling:

2 Tbsp. butter, divided
1 small onion or leek, diced
1 small russet potato, diced into small cubes
1 carrot, sliced
1 celery rib, sliced
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 bay leaf
2 tsp. minced thyme
4 oz. mushrooms, sliced
2 Tbsp. flour
1.5 cups chicken broth, warmed
1/2 cup milk or cream, at room temperature
1 cup cooked chicken, diced or shredded (I like using a mix of white and dark meat)
1/3 cup peas

1 egg, lightly beaten

To make the crust: Whisk together flour, baking powder, and salt in a bowl, or pulse a few times in your food processor. Blend in the butter with your fingertips or a pastry blender (or pulse with the food processor) until it resembles coarse meal. Add the buttermilk, stirring until mixture just forms a dough, then gather into a ball and pat into a disc. Cover in plastic wrap and refrigerate until ready to use.

To make the filling: Melt 1 Tbsp. butter in a deep saute pan. Add the onion, potato, carrot, and celery and cook until tender. Stir in the garlic, bay leaf, mushrooms, and thyme, and cook until mushrooms have given up their juices.

Add the remaining 1 Tbsp. of butter to the pan to melt. Sprinkle in the flour and cook about 1-2 minutes until combined and no longer raw. Slowly stir in the warmed chicken broth, followed by the milk to cream. Continue simmering over medium low, stirring, until thickened. Turn off the heat and stir in the chicken and peas. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Preheat the oven to 375.

Place the baking dishes on a sheet pan, and pour the filling into them.

Roll out your pie dough on a floured surface and cut 4 circles that are about 1/2" bigger than the tops of the baking dishes you are using. Place each circle over the baking dish and press the sides to adhere. Brush the beaten egg on top of the dough, and then cut a slit into each dough round, for steam to escape.

Bake for about 25-30 minutes, until pie crust is golden.
